CITY OF HAMILTON

BY-LAW NO. 10-122

Being a By-law To Prohibit and Regulate Fortification and Protective Elements of Land

WHEREAS Council of the City of Hamilton deems it in the interest of health, safety and the protection of the public to regulate fortification and protective elements with respect to land, buildings and structures in the City of Hamilton and to prohibit excessive fortification and protection of land, buildings and structures regardless of whether the fortification or protective elements were present on the day this by-law is passed, by means of a by-law limiting the impact on egress from or access to lands in case of emergencies and rescue, including access and egress by Emergency Service Personnel with duties involving emergency response such as for fires, ambulance and police matters;

AND WHEREAS access and escape from land, buildings and structures may be required both by emergency service responders for rescues and protection of property in cases of emergencies, and by the public, which access and escape may limit personal danger and property loss during emergencies;

AND WHEREAS the City of Hamilton is responsible for the enforcement of the Building Code Act, 1992, and by sections 8, 9, 10 and 133 of the Municipal Act 2001, Chapter 25 as amended, may enact by-laws to deal with fortification and protective elements in respect of land and land use, including by regulation or prohibition;

AND WHEREAS Council deems the process herein of considering an exemption under this by-law and the decision reached to be a minor and administrative matter, and wishes to delegate the consideration, refusal or approval of such exemptions to the Chief Building Official and Fire Chief or their deputies and designates pursuant to Part I of the Municipal Act, including particularly sections 23.1, 23.2 and 23.5, and further Council has considered that such exemptions would be limited in their impact on persons particularly emergency services responders given the limited nature of the available exemption, that such exemptions are limited to particular properties, and that the delegation to staff may be revoked by Council at any time;

AND WHEREAS Part XIV of the Municipal Act, 2001, including sections 425, 429, 435 through 440, and 444 through 446, provides for enforcement of by-laws, including provisions for the creation of offences and fines for contravention, inspections, powers of entry, work orders to bring properties into compliance, orders to discontinue contravening activities, warrants regarding inspection or search of properties, the carrying out of matters or things required under by-law and the collection of costs of such work;

- (2) Any person who contravenes any order made under this By-law, or an officer or director of a corporation who knowingly concurs in such a contravention by the corporation, is guilty of a continuing offence and upon conviction is liable to a daily fine or penalty of a maximum of $10,000 for each day or part of a day that the offence continues, and despite subsection (1) the total of all the daily fines imposed for an offence is not limited by the maximums listed in subsection (1).

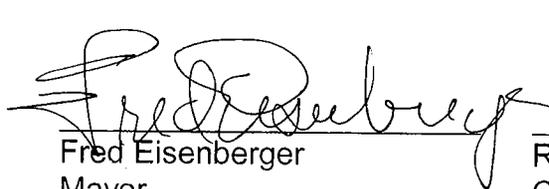

CONFLICT AND SEVERABILITY

24. It is intended by Council that this By-law provide a higher level of protection to the health, safety and welfare for Emergency Services personnel attempting to perform their duties and protect the public, rather than conflict with other law or other City by-laws.
25. In the event of conflict between this By-law and the Building Code enacted under the Building Code Act, 1992, the Building Code prevails, and further an exemption under this By-law does not preclude any requirement under the Act or Building Code including the requirement for the permit under the Act.
