DEADLINE SEPTEMBER 11, 2020

MEDICAL & FITNESS CONSIDERATIONS

The physical demands of a Firefighter are characterized by strength, endurance, coordination, agility and dexterity. Participants of Camp FFIT will experience the physical stresses of a firefighter, although to a lesser degree. All activities take place in a supervised and controlled environment. Tasks are broken down into manageable segments to avoid overloading the body. All scenarios are done in a controlled training atmosphere. A participant may stop, if at any time they do not feel comfortable and instructors will provide additional support and direction. Instructors will stop activities if at any time there appears to be any risk of injury or danger. In order to maintain a safe and productive environment, proper rest, hydration and nutrition is vital and will be emphasized during the camp and must be continued at home during the Camp FFIT weekend.

The following is a list of factors that will increase the difficulty of the physical demands that are required during tasks:

- Turnout gear and SCBA (self-contained breathing apparatus) restrict movement, adds weight to the individual and requires increased respiratory effort
- Equipment used is often heavy and is frequently used in awkward positions
- Environmental conditions such as sun, humidity and rain can add difficulty to tasks and cause fluctuations in body temperature
- Darkness and/or simulated smoke in a fire training scenario decreases visibility and increases the difficulty of tasks
- Emotional stress and excitement due to “the unknown” can increase heart rate and the onset of fatigue

Activities Camp FFIT participants will take part in include, but are not limited to:

- Full use of turnout gear and SCBA
- Search and rescue techniques with decreased visibility
- High-rise drill tower races
- Ground ladder carries, raises and climbing
- Aerial Truck ladder climb
- Auto extrication tool use
- Fire hydrant use
- Operating and controlling hose lines

Equipment used during CAMP FFIT includes, but is not limited to:

- Turnout gear and SCBA
- Axes, pike poles, haligans, sledge hammers
- Ladders, ropes
- Stationary Fire Trucks
